

Please do not overturn New Jersey's do-not-call law. Its definition of existing relationship is more restrictive than the federal because it allows calls only if the service or product to be offered is directly related to what was the basis for the relationship. So a caller cannot offer anything in its line. If I want other products or services, I will initiate contact. I want sales calls limited as much as possible. Thank you.